

Guard & Border Booths

The days are long gone of a simple kiosk or unsecure shelf separating security personnel from the general public. Modern guard and border patrol security teams need more secure and structurally robust mini-structures in place to protect them from the real-world dangers of gunfire and IEDs (improvised explosive devices).

These custom guard and border booths are compact enough to be feasible in any outdoor environment, while also designed with enough interior space to ensure personnel can handle long shifts in comfort. Inside shelving can house tools of the trade for team members and outside portals allow communication with the public in a secure fashion.
